Joe Hsu's Perspective

- How can visitors enjoy?

He recommended visiting lakes, hot springs, enjoy nature and rent a car or take trains. Sightseeing at Lake the Motosuko.

- About the overtourism in the Fuji Five Lakes Area

He thinks it is not a serious problem, but small issues are visible. For examples of bad behavior, taking photos in the middle of roads, ignoring local rules or signs, and so on. He believes that this is a long-term issue and that the lack of awareness among some tourists is a cause for concern. Therefore, he thinks that ongoing education for tourists is important.

- The importance of climber limits

He considers that introducing climber limits and fees is a realistic and safe solution. And he believes Mt. Fuji is a sacred and not just a casual hiking spot. So, climbing without proper preparation can lead to serious accidents.

- Past and future of the Fuji Five Lakes

During the past 5 years, during the COVID-19 pandemic, there were few tourists. However, now, the Fuji Five Lakes are close to Tokyo, and due to the weak yen, the number of tourists is increasing. And tourist numbers will probably continue to increase in the future. Therefore, he believes that transportation and accommodation facilities need to be improved. In addition, he considers that revitalization of the local economy is necessary because many young people are moving to large cities.
